What do I need to know before the week starts: 12/5-12/9

Timely Wolfpack Lesson: For many, the winter holiday season is a time when we pause and think of others and their well-being. It is also a time when school (and some work) pauses, giving us time to reflect on many aspects of our own lives. This week's lesson invites our students to reflect (self-awareness) on the thoughts and emotions that influence behavior. Self-awareness includes accurately assessing one's strengths and limitations and possessing a well-grounded sense of confidence and optimism. As part of the lesson, students are asked to think of a legacy statement, a single "life" sentence. While we believe your child has the information they need to succeed, they may need your help interpreting it. Here is a copy of the student form for you to use to help support their reflection.
